

ROUTLEDGE
INTERNATIONAL HANDBOOKS

The Routledge Handbook of Transformative Global Studies

Edited by S A Hamed Hosseini, James Goodman,
Sara C. Motta, and Barry K. Gills

The Routledge Handbook of Transformative Global Studies

Edited by
S A Hamed Hosseini, James Goodman,
Sara Motta, and Barry K. Gills

The Routledge Handbook of Transformative Global Studies

The Routledge Handbook of Transformative Global Studies provides diverse and cutting-edge perspectives on this fast-changing field. For thirty years the world has been caught in a long ‘global interregnum’, plunging from one crisis to the next and witnessing the emergence of new, vibrant, multiple and sometimes contradictory forms of popular resistance and politics.

This ‘global interregnum’ – or period of uncertainty where the old hegemony is fading and the new ones have not yet been fully realized – necessitates critical self-reflection, brave intellectual speculation and (un)learning of perceived wisdoms, and greater transdisciplinary collaboration across theories, localities and subjects. The Handbook takes up this challenge by developing fresh perspectives on globalization, development, neoliberalism, capitalism, and their progressive alternatives, addressing issues of democracy, power, inequality, insecurity, precarity, wellbeing, education, displacement, social movements, violence and war, and climate change. Throughout, it emphasizes the dynamics for system change, including bringing post-capitalist, feminist, (de)colonial and other critical perspectives to support transformative global praxis.

The volume brings together a mixture of fresh and established scholars from across disciplines and from a range of both Northern and Southern contexts. Researchers and students from around the world and across the fields of politics, sociology, international development, international relations, geography, economics, area studies, and philosophy will find this an invaluable and fresh guide to global studies in the 21st century.

S. A. Hamed Hosseini is Senior Lecturer in Social Sciences at the University of Newcastle, Australia, where he is Director of Alternative Futures Research Network.

James Goodman is Professor in Social and Political Sciences at the University of Technology Sydney, Australia, where he is Director of the Climate Justice Research Centre.

Sara C. Motta is a mother, poet, critical theorist, popular educator and Associate Professor in Politics at the University of Newcastle, Australia.

Barry K. Gills is Professor of Development Studies at The University of Helsinki, Finland; Chief Editor of Globalizations Journal and Editor of Routledge’s Rethinking Globalizations book series.

Contents

List of Figures	8
List of Tables	9
List of Contributors	10
Acknowledgements	18
Towards New Agendas for Transformative Global Studies: An Introduction	19
S A Hamed Hosseini, James Goodman, Sara Motta, and Barry K. Gills	19
PART I - THEORY IN TRANSITION	30
1 Reinventing the Radical beyond the Critical: Towards a Transformative Global Studies....	31
S A Hamed Hosseini and Barry K. Gills	31
2 21 st Century Deglobalization and the Struggle for Global Justice in the World Revolution of 20xx.....	49
Christopher Chase-Dunn	49
3 On the Question of Bodies, Flesh, and Global Racial Capitalism.....	66
Anna M. Agathangelou and Mishall Ahmed	66
4 Crises of Capital and Climate: Three Contradictions and Prospects for Contestation	83
James Anderson and James Goodman	83
5 Global Economy of Knowledge in Transformative Global Studies: Decoloniality, Ecologies of Knowledges and Pluriversity	97
Sabelo J. Ndlovu-Gatsheni	97
6 Another World is Possible: The Possibilities for a Transformative, Post-Capitalist Education 114
Richard Hall	114
7 Revisiting Neoliberalism in the Age of Rising Authoritarianisms: Between Convictions and Contradictions	129
Emel Akçali	129
8 End of Ideology? A Neoliberal Hoax and Lessons for the Left	145
Rafal Soborski	145
9 Pueblo and Exteriority: On the Thought of Enrique Dussel.....	158
Mario Sáenz	158
10 Transmodern Transdevelopment: An Alternative Response to the 21st Century Global Ecosociocultural Crisis	173
Antonio Luis Hidalgo-Capitán and Ana Patricia Cubillo-Guevara	173

PARTII TRANSFORMATION IN THE INTRREGNUM.....	190
SOCIO-POLITICS.....	191
11 The Political Economy Dynamics of Global Disintegration and Its Implications for War, Peace and Security in 21st Century	192
Heikki Patomäki	192
12 BRICS from Above, Commoning from Below	207
Patrick Bond and Ana Garcia	207
13 Contested American Dominance: Global Order in an Era of Rising Powers	224
Salvador Santino F. Regilme Jr. and James Parisot	224
14 Pro-Capitalist Violence and Globalization: Lessons from Latin America	240
Jasmin Hristov	240
15 Populism and Transformative Politics in West Bengal, India	258
Debal K. SinghaRoy	258
16 The (Mis)shaping of Health: Problematizing Neoliberal Discourses of Individualism and Responsibility	268
Lisette Farias Vera	268
17 Politics of Hope: Transformation or Stagnation?	282
Marjo Lindroth and Heidi Sinevaara-Niskanen	282
SOCIO-ECOLOGY	298
18 A Materialist Ecofeminist Reading of the Green Economy: or, Yes Karl, the Ecological Footprint is Sex-Gendered	299
Ariel Salleh	299
19 Climate Change and Capitalism.....	312
Hans A Baer	312
20 Planetary Ethics beyond Neoliberalism: The Earth Charter's 'Community of Life'	330
Alfonso Fernández-Herrería ad Francisco Miguel Martínez-Rodríguez	330
21 The Politics of the Land Rush: Scales of Land Contention and the Reconfiguration of Political Authority.....	346
Jacobo Grajales and Mathilde Allain	346
22 Three Worlds of Climate Imperialism? Prospects for Climate Justice.....	362
James Goodman	362
23 Work in Global Capitalism	377
Kwang-Yeong Shin	377

SOCIO-ECONOMICS.....	394
24 Unravelling Monopoly Capital in the 21 st Century and the Role of the Imperial Innovation System: Silicon Valley and Counter-hegemonies.....	395
Raúl Delgado Wise	395
25 Public Health 4.0 in the Emergent Climate of Global Transformation	409
Deane Neubauer	409
26 Global Capitalism, Wealth Inequality, and the Art Sector	423
Andres Solimano and Paula Solimano	423
27 A Capitalist world? Imagining, Envisioning and Enacting Futures of Work and Organization Centered around Informal and Diverse Economies	440
Richard J White and Colin C Williams	440
28 Owning the Future of Work.....	460
Alec Stubbs	460
29 The Future of Labor and Capital in China.....	475
An Li and Zhun Xu	475
PART III ALTERNATIVE FUTURES: BEYOND THE INTERREGNUM	490
30 Toward Human/Non-Human Conviviality: Buen Vivir as a Transformative Alternative to Capitalist Coloniality	491
Eija Ranta	491
31 Subaltern Politics in the World's Largest Democracy: Utopian Horizons versus Conjunctural Compulsion?	504
Alf Gunvald Nilsen	504
32 Intersectionality and Refugee Justice: Feminist Approaches to Insecurity and Precarity.....	519
Beverly Weber	519
33 New Forms of Feminized Resistances and their Role in the (Re)creation of Emancipatory Political Subjectivities in Latin America	535
Liz Mason Deese	535
34 Territories of Decolonising Feminist/ised Struggles	549
Sara C Motta	549
35 Governing the Petropolis: From Resource Entrepreneurialism to Resource Commoning 564
Franklin Obeng-Odoom	564
36 Strategy in/for Progressive Transformation: a Pluri-scalar War of Position	579
Thomas Muhr	579

37	Struggle, Resistance and Disruption in Austerity Europe	595
	Nikolai Huke, David J. Bailey, Mònica Clua-Losada, and Olatz Ribera-Almandoz.....	595
38	The Future of Revolutions: Intersectional Global Climate Justice as Humanity’s Best Hope 610
	John Foran.....	610

List of Figures

List of Tables

Table 4.1 Three Drivers of Socio-Ecological Crisis	86
Table 19.1 The Ten Leading Countries in Fossil Fuel CO ₂ Emissions.....	319
Table 22.1 Classical Imperialism and Climate Imperialism: Key Aspects.....	368
Table 24.1 North–South Balance in Patent Applications, 1990–2010.....	400
Table 24.2 Patent Applications PCT–WIPO.....	401
Table 26.1 Global Share of Millionaires (HNWIs), Ultra-Millionaires (Ultra-HNWIs) and Billionaires in Total Personal Wealth (percent, 2017).....	426
Table 26.2 The Global Art Market: Value and Volume of Transactions.....	427
Table 26.3 Share of Lots Sold and Total Value at Global Fine Art Auctions in 2017 by Price Bracket.	429
Table 26.4 The Art Market and the Stock and Property Markets.	431
Table 27.1 Household Work Practice Survey: Evidencing the Diverse Labour Practices used to complete a range of Domestic Tasks.	447
Table 29.1 Growth rates of labor share and its drivers, 1999-2007 and 2007-2016.....	482

Contributors

Anna M. Agathangelou teaches in the department of Politics at York University. As a fellow in the Program of Science, Technology & Society at the School of Government, Harvard (2014-2015), she has worked on bio-constitutionalism and global innovation humanitarianisms. She is the co-editor of Time, Temporality and Violence in International Relation: (De)Fatalizing the Present, Forging Radical Alternatives (2016); the co-editor of Arab Revolutions and World Transformations (2013); co-author of Transforming World Politics: From Empire to Multiple Worlds (2009).

Emel Akçalı is a Senior Lecturer at the Department of Politics and International Relations. Prior to coming to Swansea, she was a resident fellow at the IMERA - Institute of Advanced Study of Aix Marseille University in France and an assistant professor at the International Relations Department of Central European University in Budapest, Hungary. She is the author of Chypre: Un enjeu géopolitique actuel (l'Harmattan, Paris, 2009). She has also recently published an edited volume from Palgrave entitled Neoliberal Governmentality and the Future of the State in the Middle East and North Africa.

Mathilde Allain is associate researcher at the Centre for Social Conflict and Cohesion Studies (COES), Santiago, Chile and at the Centre for Research and Documentation on the Americas (CREDA), University Sorbonne Nouvelle Paris 3, France. Her core research interest are agrarian and environmental social movements in Latin America (Colombia and Chile). She is now focusing on the role of private actors in policy building at the local level. Her work has been published in journals such as Governance and Critique Internationale.

James Anderson is Emeritus Professor of Political Geography, Queens University Belfast, and Visiting Professor in the University's Senator George J. Mitchell Institute for Global Peace, Security and Justice. At Queens University Belfast he co-founded of the Centre for International Borders Research. He has edited numerous books, including Transnational Democracy: Political Spaces and Border-crossings (2002), and publishes regularly on issues of imperialism, geopolitics and ecological change, such as on capitalism and nature in Nature's Revenge (2006), on borders and imperialism in the Companion to Border Studies (2012) and on divided cities in Contested Holy Cities (2019).

Hans A. Baer is a social anthropologist based at the University of Melbourne. He has conducted research on Hutterites, Mormonism, African American religion, and socio-political life in East Germany before and after unification, critical health anthropology, and medical pluralism, the political economy of higher education, climate change, automobiles, aeroplanes, and eco-socialism. Baer has published four climate-change related books and Democratic Eco-Socialism as a Real Utopia (in 2017).

David J. Bailey is a Senior Lecturer in Politics in the Department of Political Science and International Studies, University of Birmingham.

Patrick Bond, a political economist, is Professor at the University of the Western Cape School of Government in Cape Town. While conducting doctoral studies at Johns Hopkins University, he moved to South Africa in 1990 where he served anti-apartheid urban social movements. Since 1997 he has also taught at Wits University and the University of KwaZulu-Natal. His best-known book is Elite Transition: From Apartheid to Neoliberalism in South Africa. Other critical analyses can be found in BRICS, Politics of Climate Justice, Against Global Apartheid, Talk Left Walk Right, Looting Africa, Unsustainable South Africa and Cities of Gold, Townships of Coal.

Christopher Chase-Dunn is Distinguished Professor of Sociology and Director of Institute for Research on World Systems at the University of California Riverside and founding editor of the Journal of World-Systems Research. His research focuses on the causes of human socio-cultural evolution, global state formation, and the democratization of global governance.

Mònica Clua-Losada is Associate Professor in Global Political Economy at the Department of Political Science at the University of Texas Rio Grande Valley. She holds a PhD from the University of York (UK). She is an executive board member of the Johns Hopkins University-Universitat Pompeu Fabra Public Policy Center in Barcelona. Her research focuses on the contestation, subversion and resistance of labour and other social movements to capitalist relations of domination in Europe.

Ana Patricia Cubillo-Guevara is a consultant on political, social, gender and educational issues and member of 'Transdisciplinary' Research Group of University of Huelva. She has been Temporary Lecture at the Department of Sociology, Social Work and Public Health of University of Huelva and Vice minister of Environment of Andalusian Govern (Spain). She is co-author of the books Transmodernidad y transdesarrollo (2016) and Los Objetivos del Buen Vivir a escala global.

Raúl Delgado Wise Professor and Director of the Doctoral Program in Development Studies at the University of Zacatecas, Mexico, President and founder of the International Network on Migration and Development, General Coordinator of the UNESCO Chair on Migration, Development and Human Rights, and co-Chair of the Critical Development Studies Network. He is the author and editor of 30 books and more than 200 essays, including book chapters and refereed articles.

Lisette Farias-Vera is an Occupational therapist and Assistant Professor at Karolinska Institutet in Sweden. Her research focuses on exploring and addressing issues of health and social inequity that affect the promotion of people's participation in society and well-being. To advance this intent, she draws on critical, participatory and dialogical approaches to problematize assumptions and values that guide health-related practices, as well as broader socio-political discourses that shape people's lifestyle choices and every day doing (occupations).

Ana Garcia is professor of International Relations at the Federal Rural University of Rio de Janeiro. She has a PhD in International Relations from the Catholic University of Rio de Janeiro and Master degree in Political Science from the Free University of Berlin. She was a program officer at the Rosa Luxemburg Foundation office in Sao Paulo and collaborates as researcher at the Institute of Alternative Policies in the Southern Cone (PACS). She works in the realm of International Political Economy and Critical Theory. Some of her latest publications are: Investimentos da China no Brasil, África do Sul e Índia. Arranjos institucionais, atores e impactos (2019); Amplifying the contradictions: the centrifugal BRICS

(with Patrick Bond, 2019); A Road to Development? The Nacala Corridor at the intersection between Brazilian and Global Investments (2019).

Alfonso Fernández-Herrería has a PhD in Pedagogy from the University of Granada, and BA and MA in Philosophy from the Pontifical University of Saint Thomas Aquinas in Rome and University of Valencia. Alfonso is Professor in the Department of Pedagogy at the University of Granada. His research lines are: Theory of Peace, Education for Peace, the Earth Charter, Critical Theories in Education and Neoliberalism, and Social Education. Founding member of the Spanish Association of Research for Peace and the Institute of Peace and Conflicts at the University of Granada.

John Foran teaches Sociology at the University of California, Santa Barbara. He is a scholar-activist in the global climate justice movement, the centre of the struggle for achieving social justice and radical social change in the 21st century. A lot of his work is published at www.resilience.org. He is an active member of Transition US, Democratic Socialists of America, System Change Not Climate Change, 350.org, the Green Party of California, Extinction Rebellion, and Symbiosis Revolution.

Barry K. Gills is Professor of Development Studies in the Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Helsinki, Finland. He is founding editor and Editor in Chief of the journal Globalizations, and Rethinking Globalizations book series (Routledge). He is currently involved in the launch of the Global Extractivisms and Alternatives Initiative (EXALT) based at the University of Helsinki. His current research focusses on the role of global extractivism within the global climate emergency and radical transformation.

James Goodman is Professor and Director of the Climate Justice Research Centre at the University of Technology Sydney. He researches and teaches in global politics and has co-authored five books, including Beyond the Coal Rush. A Turning Point for Global Energy and Climate Policy? (2020), Justice Globalism: Ideology, Crises, Policy (2013) and Climate Upsurge: An Ethnography of Climate Movement Politics (2014). He has also co-edited seven books and six special journal issues, including 'Problems of Method in Climate and Energy Research' (Energy Research and Social Sciences, 2018) and 'Coal, Climate and Developmentalism' (Energy Policy, 2016).

Jacobo Grajales is Professor of political science at the University of Lille, France, and fellow of the Institut Universitaire de France. Having previously conducted research on the relationships between the state and armed groups in Colombia, he is now examining the links between post-conflict politics and land policies, with a comparative perspective. His work has been published in journals such as Development & Change, Journal of Peasant Studies, and Journal of Politics in Latin America.

Richard Hall is Professor of Education and Technology at De Montfort University, Leicester, UK, and a UK National Teaching Fellow. He is a Trustee of the Open Library of Humanities and sits on the management Committee for the Leicester Primary Pupil Referral Unit. He writes about life in higher education at: <http://richard-hall.org>.

Antonio Luis Hidlago-Capitán is Senior Lecture at Economics Department of University of Huelva (Spain). Also he is member of Research Centre on Contemporary Thought and Innovación for Social Development and coordinator of 'Transdisciplinarians' Research Group of this university. He is co-author of the books Transmodernidad y transdesarroll (2016) and Los Objetivos del Buen Vivir a escala global (2018).

S A Hamed Hosseini is a Senior Lecturer at The University of Newcastle, Australia. He is the lead editor of the Routledge Handbook of Transformative Global Studies (2020), author of Conscientious Sociology (2013) and Alternative Globalizations (2009/2011), director of UON Alternative Futures Research Network, and founder and chief editor of “Common Alternatives” initiative (www.thecommonalts.com). He has conducted mixed-method (quantitative-qualitative) interdisciplinary research on Collective Cognition and Social Closed/Open-mindedness, Global Justice Movements, Post-capitalist meta-ideologies, Social and Communal Well-living, Applied Social and Community Informatics, and Open Big Data.

Jasmin Hristov is Assistant Professor of Sociology at the University of British Columbia Okanagan and recipient of the Canadian Sociological Association’s Early Investigator Award. She is the author of Paramilitarism and Neoliberalism: Violent Systems of Capital Accumulation in Colombia and Beyond and Blood and Capital: the Paramilitarization of Colombia. She has book chapters in Gender and Development: the Economic Basis of Women’s Power (2019) and Gendering Globalization, Globalizing Gender: Post-Colonial Perspectives (2020).

Nikolai Huke is a Research Assistant and Lecturer in Political Science at Eberhard Karls University, Tübingen, Germany. He is the author of two books on social movements in Spain during the Eurozone crisis (Krisenproteste in Spanien and ‘Sie repräsentieren uns nicht’. Soziale Bewegungen und Krisen der Demokratie in Spanien) and has co-authored the book, Beyond defeat and austerity: Disrupting the (Critical Political Economy of) Neoliberal Europe. His research interests include authoritarian populism, radical democracy, social movements, European integration, migration and Critical International Political Economy.

An Li has received her BA and MA from Renmin University of China, and her PhD, from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. Her teaching and research interests include political economy of labour, Chinese economy, political economy of environmental justice, the global outsourcing of pollution-generating activities, and the interaction between economic inequality and the environment.

Marjo Lindroth is a University Researcher in the Arctic Centre at the University of Lapland, Finland. She studies the ways in which indigeneity is governed in international politics. Her current research project, Indigeneity in Waiting: Elusive Rights and the Power of Hope (Academy of Finland, 2016-2020), critically examines the political aspects of hope. Lindroth’s recent book, Global Politics and its Violent Care for Indigeneity: Sequels to Colonialism (Palgrave Macmillan, 2018), co-authored with Heidi Sinevaara-Niskanen, analyses and illustrates how the inclusion and recognition of indigeneity in global politics constitute a continuation of colonial practices.

Francisco Miguel Martínez-Rodríguez is Assistant Professor in the Faculty of Education of the University of Granada (Department of Pedagogy - Theory and History of Education). Currently, he works as a lecturer at the aforementioned university in the Degrees of Social Education and Pedagogy, as well as in different Master Degrees. His main research lines are focused on: Critical Pedagogy, Neoliberalization processes, Precariousness and practices of resistance in socio-educational contexts.

Liz Mason-Deese holds a PhD in Geography from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She previously taught at the University of Mary Washington and George Mason University and is currently based in Buenos Aires where she works as a translator and independent researcher.

Sara C. Motta is a mother, critical political theorist, poet, popular educator and Associate Professor in Politics at the University of Newcastle, NSW Australia. She has published over 50 academic articles covering the topics of decolonial feminism, an other feminised politics, emancipatory pedagogies, and prefigurative epistemologies. Her latest books include: Constructing 21st Century Socialism in Latin America: The Role of Radical Education (2014) and Liminal Subjects: Weaving (our) Liberation (2018, Rowman & Littlefield) which was recipient of the best Feminist Theory and Gender Studies book of the International Studies Association (ISA), 2019.

Thomas Muhr is Integrated Researcher at ISCTE-University Institute Lisbon (ISCTE-IUL), Portugal, and Honorary Assistant Professor at the University of Nottingham, UK. Since the award of his PhD in 2009, funded by the UK Economic and Social Research Council (ESRC), Thomas has held research and teaching positions at universities in Austria, Germany, Pakistan and the UK. Thomas' academic interests revolve around the political sociology and human geographies of globalisation, development and education.

Sabelo J. Ndlovu-Gatsheni is Research Professor and Director of Scholarship in the Department of Leadership and Transformation (DLT) in the Principal and Vice-Chancellor's Office at the University of South Africa (UNISA) and 2019 Visiting Professor at the Johannesburg Institute of Advanced Study (JIAS) at the University of Johannesburg (UJ). He is a leading African historian and decolonial theorist. His two latest major publications are Epistemic Freedom in Africa: Deprovincialization and Decolonization (Routledge, July 2019) and Decolonization, Development and Knowledge in Africa: Turning over a New Leaf Africa (July 2020).

Deane Neubauer is Professor Emeritus of Political Science at the University of Hawaii, Manoa. He currently also serves as the Associate Director of the Asia Pacific Higher Education Research Partnership (APHERP), headquartered in Hong Kong, which conducts a wide range of policy-focused research with a special focus on higher education. He is also currently an adjunct senior fellow of the East-West Centre, in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Alf Gunvald Nilsen is professor of sociology at the University of Pretoria. His research focuses on the political economy of development and democracy in the global South with a specific focus on India and the BRICS countries. He is the author, most recently, of Adivasis and the State: Subalternity and Citizenship (2018) and co-editor of Indian Democracy: Origins, Trajectories, Contestations (2019).

Franklin Obeng-Odoom is Associate Professor of Sustainability Science with Development Studies and the Helsinki Institute of Sustainability Science, at the University of Helsinki in Finland where he is the current Chairperson of the Finnish Society for Development Research. He works on the political economy of development, cities, and natural resources. His books include Oiling the Urban Economy (2014), Reconstructing Urban Economics (2016), and Property, Institutions, and Social Stratification in Africa (2020).

James Parisot is the author of How America Became Capitalist: Imperial Expansion and the Conquest of the West (2019).

Heikki Patomäki is Professor of World Politics at University of Helsinki, Finland. He has also taught at Nottingham Trent University, UK and RMIT University in Melbourne Australia, and visited Ritsumeikan University in Kyoto, Japan and University of Cambridge in the UK. Patomäki's research interests include philosophy, methodology of social sciences, economic theory, global political economy, peace research, futures studies, and global justice and democracy. Patomäki's most recent book in English is Disintegrative Tendencies in Global Political Economy: Exits and Conflicts (2018).

Eija Ranta is University Lecturer in development studies at the University of Helsinki. Her research focuses on development alternatives, decoloniality, civil society, and state formation in Latin America and Africa. She has published a monograph, Vivir Bien as an Alternative to Neoliberal Globalization (2018), and her articles have appeared in such journals as Third World Quarterly, Globalizations and Forum for Development Studies.

Olatz Ribera-Almadoz recently completed her PhD at the Department of Political and Social Sciences at Universitat Pompeu Fabra, Barcelona.

Salvador Santino Fulo Regilme Jr is a tenured University Lecturer of International Relations at the Institute for History, Leiden University. He holds a PhD in Political Science and North American Studies from the Freie Universität Berlin. He co-edited American Hegemony and the Rise of Emerging Powers (2017). His current book project focuses on the impact of United States foreign aid on recipient countries' human rights situation.

Mario Sáenz is a Latin American philosopher working in the United States. He specializes in Marxism and philosophies of liberation. He has published work on Leopoldo Zea and Enrique Dussel. His current research examines critically the 'Levinasian' aspect of the latter, and seeks to complement or replace it with a reconstruction of the concept of infinity as an immanent logic of intersubjectivity.

Ariel Salleh is an Honorary Associate Professor in Political Economy, University of Sydney, and Visiting Professor in Culture, Philosophy & Environment, Nelson Mandela University. A long-time activist, she was a founding editor of the journal Capitalism Nature Socialism. Her work on the role of regenerative labour in the world system is seminal to political ecology as the study of humanity-nature relations. Publications include: Ecofeminism as Politics; Eco-Sufficiency & Global Justice; and co-edited with Kothari et al., Pluriverse: A Post-Development Dictionary. Additionally, some 200 chapters and articles can be found at www.arielsalleh.info.

Kwang-Yeong Shin is professor of sociology at Chung-Ang University in Seoul, Korea. He has worked on social inequality, labour, democratization and welfare in East Asia in a comparative perspective. His recent publications include a book chapter, Reshaping Political Space and Workers Mobilization (2017), and two articles, Economic Crisis, Neoliberal Reforms, and the Rise of Precarious Work in South Korea (2013), and Neo-liberal Economic Reform, Social Change, and Inequality in the Post-crisis Period in South Korea, (2019).

Heidi Sinevaara-Niskanen is a Researcher in Gender Studies at the University of Lapland, Finland. Her research interests combine questions of development, power, gender and indigeneity from a critical perspective. Her ongoing research project, Indigeneity in Waiting: Elusive Rights and the Power of Hope (Academy of Finland, 2016-2020), studies the complex ways in which indigeneity is managed in international politics. Sinevaara-Niskanen's recent book is Global Politics and its Violent Care for Indigeneity: Sequels to Colonialism (2018), co-authored with Marjo Lindroth.

Debal K. SinghaRoy is Professor of Sociology, Indira Gandhi National Open University, New Delhi. He has been a Commonwealth Fellow and Visiting Professor of Sociology of Social Movements in the UK, visiting scholar in the La Maison des Sciences de l'Homme in France and Shastri-Indo Visiting Fellow in Canada. His books include Identity, Society and Transformative Social Categories (2018); Towards a Knowledge Society: New Identities in Emerging India (2014); Peasant Movements in Post-Colonial India: Dynamics of Mobilisation and Identity (2004), and other titles; his upcoming book is on partition, nationalism and patriotism in India.

Dr Rafal Soborski is a Professor of International Politics at Richmond: The American International University in London. He has taught extensively in areas of global studies and international politics and has published many articles and chapters on globalization, ideology, social movements and green political thought. His first monograph, Ideology in a Global Age: Continuity and Change, was published in 2013 by Palgrave Macmillan. His most recent book is Ideology and the Future of Progressive Social Movements (2018).

Andrés Solimano holds a Ph.D. in Economics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT). He is founder and Chairman of the International Centre for Globalization and Development (CIGLOB). Formerly he served as Country Director at the World Bank, Executive Director at the Inter-American Development Bank and Director of the Chile office of the Latin American School of Social Sciences (FLACSO) and Director of project on International Mobility of Talent with the United Nations University-World Institute of Economic Research in Helsinki. His most recent books as sole author includes A History of Big Recessions in the long 20th Century, (2020).

Paula Solimano is an independent curator and writer based in New York City. She is getting her masters degree in Art History at CUNY's Hunter College with a concentration in modern and contemporary Latin American art, supported by the Queen Sofía Spanish Institute. A contributor for magazines ArtNexus and Artishock, she has published exhibition reviews and articles that focus on inequality in the art sector, addressing subjects such as gender gaps in museums and the relationships between market booms and coloniality, philanthropy and economic inequity. Among other curatorial projects, she is currently preparing Gran Sur: Chilean Contemporary Art from the Engel Collection, the largest and most comprehensive survey of contemporary Chilean art to date.

Alec Stubbs is a PhD candidate in the Department of Philosophy at Loyola University Chicago in Chicago, IL, USA. His work focuses on critiques of capitalism and technology, visions for a post-capitalist future, and anarchist alternatives to the failures of capitalist economies. He is also actively involved in the unionization of graduate student workers in Chicago and elsewhere in the United States.

Beverly Weber is Associate Professor of German Studies at the University of Colorado Boulder. She is co-author of Precarious Intimacies: The Politics of Touch in Contemporary European Cinema (with Maria Stehle, forthcoming with Northwestern University Press, 2020), and author of Violence and Gender in the “New” Europe: Islam in German Culture (Palgrave, 2013). She has published widely on racism, gender, Islam, and refugee migration in contemporary Germany, as well as on racism and whiteness in academia. She is currently working on a monograph tentatively titled Decolonizing Hospitality: Refugee Cultural Production and the Politics of Welcome in Contemporary Germany.

Richard J. White is a Reader in Human Geography in the Department of Natural and Built Environment at Sheffield Hallam University, UK. Greatly influenced by anarchist praxis, his main research agenda explores a range of ethical, economic and activist landscapes rooted in questions of social and spatial justice. His writings on diverse economies and postcapitalist futures have been published in a number of journals and books, including: Sharing Economies in Times of Crisis (2017); The Handbook of Neoliberalism (2016) and The Accumulation of Freedom (2014).

Colin C. Williams is Professor of Public Policy in the Management School at the University of Sheffield in the United Kingdom. Since 2016, he has been lead expert to the European Commission’s European Platform Tackling Undeclared Work, supporting member states of the European Union and social partners to tackle undeclared work.

Zhun Xu teaches economics at Howard University. His recent book is From Commune to Capitalism: How China's Peasants Lost Collective Farming and Gained Urban Poverty.

Acknowledgements

We would like to acknowledge the significance of the contributions made by the 51 authors who agreed to participate in this project. We believe their body of work, and the book as a whole, signals an important step towards a new transformative paradigm in global and development studies. The Handbook pushes for a scholarship that is more consciously engaged in developing agendas for transforming societies, and this is reflected in the commitment to investigating, nurturing and participating in alternatives and emancipatory agendas evident across many of the contributions. We acknowledge that this is not the first move in this direction, and rather see this as a contribution to what is necessarily a pluridiverse agenda, commitment and task. But we do believe it opens up possibilities for more engaged research agendas, for a type of global studies that is committed in word and deed to overcoming the present-day global malaise. We wish to thank all the contributors for helping us embark on and nurture this agenda, and most especially those from the Global South: a key priority for any transformative scholarship is to liberate itself from Eurocentric residues. To advance this we have actively sought to create a Handbook that engages with non-Western intellectual traditions and praxis.

Warm thanks are due to the team at Routledge Development Studies, particularly Helena Hurd who first approached Prof. Barry K. Gills to develop possibilities for the Handbook, and Matthew Sherbrook whose advice, patience, comments, and assistance were all substantial in the completion and production of the book. Many thanks are also due to Elizabeth Cox, as the acting editor and the Routledge copy editors involved in the project. A few chapters were written by non-English speaking authors and we are very thankful to Dr Elizabeth Adamczyk and Dr Victor Quirk, from The University of Newcastle (UON), Australia, for their editorial support, and also for funds for this from School of Humanities and Social Science. Last but not least, we are grateful to anonymous reviewers of the book proposal, and also to Prof. Henry Veltmeyer and Prof. Teivo Teivainen for their constructive comments and recommendations in the early stages of the work.

We wish to dedicate this Handbook to all who believe in a better future: “Verily, the earth shall be inherited by the righteous.” (Qur’an, 21:105).

S A Hamed Hosseini (Newcastle), James Goodman (Sydney), Sara C. Motta (Newcastle), Barry K. Gills (Helsinki)

January 2020

thecommonalts.com